To whom it may concern,

Hello! I am writing to apply for the position of 3D Artist as advertised on your website. I would consider myself to be a highly capable 3D artist and have always been regarded as someone who was able to quickly pick up new skills. While pursuing my education, I have been recognized for my ability to work well as a part of a team, under strict deadlines, and guide others when needed. I have developed a wide range of design skills and have immersed myself in learning more about modeling, lighting and texturing, and animation not only while attending Lipscomb University but after graduating this past May. I graduated with a BFA in Animation and I am ready to apply these abilities to a respected game development studio while continuing to learn the best methods and technologies the industry has to offer.

During my time in school I have learned a variety of programs such as Photoshop, TV Paint, Maya, After Effects, and have worked on a variety of projects varying in size all while maintaining a 3.69 GPA and a full time job.

I am confident after reviewing my resume and website you will see that I will be an excellent asset to the company and to the team dynamic. I look forward to discussing my credentials and any questions you might have further with you!

Sincerely,

Sheric Davis
